Types of risks in FOREX

High risk is a distinctive feature of trading activity on financial markets. Professional participants of the market trade at their own risk of losing a certain part of financial resources. Risks on financial markets are very diverse. Only the most widespread of them will be described here.

1.1 The Risks of Leverage

Fluctuation of exchange rates is one of the major factors, influencing the result of trading activities. Its slight changes can lead to big gains as well as losses. If a trader has chosen a position contrary to the market trend, he/she can lose the whole amount of the deposit. The full responsibility for possible loss of financial resources lies on the client. He/she chooses a trading strategy and analyzes the possibility of a risky situation.

1.2 Technical risks

Technical risks are caused by the failure of systems that are a direct part of the business. These are information, communication and other systems. The risk of financial losses can be caused by hardware failure, internet failures or software malfunctions. The company is not responsible for losses or lost profits incurred by customers due to technical failure of systems. The customer is responsible for financial losses incurred by him due to his ignorance of the instructions described in the "User Manual" for the client terminal.

1.3 Communication risks

Communication risks caused by unauthorized access of unauthorized persons to confidential information. A high probability of risks arises when information is sent unencrypted via e-mail or instant messaging. If information from the company is not received or is not received in a timely manner, all financial risks are borne by the client. The client is fully responsible for the confidentiality of the information provided. It is in his interest to protect it from unauthorized access by third parties.

1.4 Force majeure events

The company declines responsibility for the actions of third parties that can prevent the fruitful cooperation between it and the client. All risks associated with force majeure circumstances, the client assumes. They include: acts of terrorism, military actions, sudden suspension of trading on the financial markets, natural disasters, changes in the legal framework, etc.
